THE OPIUM TRAFFIC.

How the Great Firm of Russell & Co., United States Citizens, Evaded the Law in a Profitable Manner.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—[Special.]—Accompanying the report made yesterday by Senator Miller of California, on the opium bill, were copies of correspondence between Senator Miller and the secretary of state upon the subject of the importation of opium. Secretary Frelinghuysen on Jan. 11 last informed Senator Miller of a second dispatch received from Minister Young, Nov. 16, 1883, in relation to the opium traffic. In this letter the secretary said: "As it may appear inconsistent that either the United States or China should benefit by the seizure of an article in which traffic is prohibited, it may be in order to consider the propriety of destroying seized contraband shipments."

The letter of Minister Young says that the wording of the act of the last congress in relation to the forfeiture of seized opium for the benefit of the United States is inconsistent with the terms of the treaty with China. Mr. Young says: "While it is not likely that United States citizens will violate the terms of our compact with China, by which they are forbidden to engage in opium traffic, there is danger that this prohibition may be evaded. In my dispatch of Nov. 20, 1883, and of March 20 last, I laid before the department the complaint of this nature made by Chinese authorities at Chin Kiang against an American resident at that port, and I have now the honor to submit to you a translation of a dispatch from Prince Kung in which he makes a similar charge against the house of Russell & Co. The statement in brief is that this well-known firm shipped five chests of opium from their Hong Kong house to their house in Tainan. On application being made in the name of the firm for permission to land the drug the request was properly refused by the custom house officers on the ground that Americans were forbidden to import opium in Chinese ports. Thereupon Russell & Co.'s employe who happened to be a British subject withdrew his first application and made out a new one in his own name, when the customs officers fearing complications with the British authorities granted its landing here. I furnish you also with a copy of my response to the foreign office and of a letter of inquiry which I addressed to Russell & Co. To this last, though sent in May, I have received no answer, and I am forced to the conclusion that the facts of the case are correctly stated by Prince Kung. I beg to call your serious attention to this feature of the question and to suggest that the act could be amended with advantage by the addition of section 30, worded as to prevent such cases one of the treaty, or to punish citizens of the United States who may be parties to them."

TARIFF LEGISLATION.

The Effect which Tuesday Night's Caucus will Have upon this Subject—Diverse Ideas of Randall and Morrison.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—[Special.]—The single topic of conversation among the members of the house has been Tuesday night's caucus and its effect upon tariff legislation, and that ex-Speaker Randall should have mustered fifty-seven votes against Morrison's resolution amended though it was to permit the offering of amendments. Several weeks ago Randall said he had no objection to the discussion of the bill believing that its inherent weaknesses would be developed by debate. While the ex-speaker is reticent regarding his plans for the future and refuses to be interviewed in relation to the action of the caucus, he considers the question of tariff legislation practically decided in the negative. The bill will undoubtedly be brought before the house for debate. Unless an issue is joined at the start which compels its defeat various amendments will be proposed and voted upon. When the bill is in some sense completed a vote will be taken upon its passage and then according to the predictions of Randall's friends it will be easily killed. On the other hand Morrison and his followers aver that some tariff bill will pass the house. He thinks that the decision of a large majority in favor of tariff legislation at the present session will end in the passage of some bill, and that his horizontal reduction scheme will be the basis of future action. The revenue reformers claim notwithstanding the adoption of the Hopkins amendment of the Morrison bill that the members are morally bound to abide by the decision of the caucus, and that any member voting against the will of the majority steps outside the party organization. The time has now passed when such statements alarm dissenting representatives. The attention of revenue reformers will be devoted from the present time on to the consideration of amendments that will gain votes for the bill. They expect by engrafting fair revenue reductions into the bill by raising the duty on wool and by striking off coal, salt and lumber from the free list to obtain enough votes to pass the bill. It is not impossible that such a programme may be successful but the danger is that by further inoculating the measure it will lose the support of many revenue reformers who think the bill in its present shape is too weak to work any particular good to the country.

TO MAKE INDIANS CITIZENS.

A Bill with This Object in View Passes the Senate—An Amendment by Senator Dolph.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—[Special.]—The senate has passed the bill providing for the allotment of lands in severalty to Indians. This measure is the beginning and end of the Indian question and for six years has been pending in congress, having passed the senate twice but failed in the house. It provides that whenever the president shall think proper he may take measures to obtain the consent of any Indians now on reservations and shall allot them land in sufficient quantity to support themselves. None are allowed to own such lands until the expiration of twenty five years, when a United States patent will be issued to them. The idea of the bill is also ultimately to abolish Indian reservations and make the red men dependent upon themselves. If the bill passes the house it will within the next quarter of a century add 100,000,000 acres to the public domain, all of which will be thrown open for pre-emption. It comprises some of the best land in the country, but provides that after each tribe is allotted lands in severalty, its members are to be considered citizens and subjected to the civil and criminal laws of the state or territory in which they are located.

Senator Dolph had an amendment inserted in the bill providing that all proceeds from the sale of reservation lands shall be invested by the secretary of the interior for the benefit of the Indians and paid at the end of twenty five years to them. In the meantime the interest is to be paid to the Indians to aid them in maintaining themselves. No one objected to the amendment, but Dolph made a short speech upon it in which he said it was proposed to prevent the Indians being lost after obtaining a title to their lands without anything else.

Senator Miller also made a short speech upon the bill in which he expressed the opinion that twenty five years was too short a time to allow in which to make the red men dependent on themselves, but as the time may be extended in the judgment of the president no change was made and the bill passed.

VANDERBILT'S VIEWS.

He Thinks Politics Don't Amount to Anything but is Angered at Having to Pay Duty on Steel Rails and Pictures.

NEW YORK, March 27.—[Special.]—Vanderbilt being interviewed said: "I don't believe there will be as many railroads built this year as there have been. A law must be passed by which I [illegible] dent of a railroad I cannot be president of a construction company [illegible]. If every body in the country [illegible] the country [illegible] thing will be well enough. [illegible] the country might better work for than against it. [illegible] change the views of people. [illegible] think that the country is going to the dogs and there to the contrary."

"What are your politics?" asked the reporter.

"I have none at all. I vote on one side as often as the other. I really don't think politics amount to anything. I used to be an old line whig. The balance of power in this country is with the conservative element. I vote for men rather than party, except when a national question comes up. Now there is a good deal more duty on some things than there ought to be—steel for instance. I believe in supporting our industries. You are going to a point where our home industries are in danger with the productions of other countries. The idea of $[illegible] a ton for steel is perfectly outrageous. It is hard for me to say but in England or France you get a guarantee that the articles you purchase are as good as the manufacturers have ever made. Here, if an article goes down in price it is adulterated. This must not lead you to think that I am opposed to America. I am in favor of America and everything American. But, for instance, the duty on pictures protect any one here? The most of [illegible] are on the other side. The duty used to be 10 per cent. American students were admitted to European schools and ateliers. Then the duty was put at 30 per cent. If I had a studio I would not admit a single American. The duty has stopped people from buying pictures. It has stopped me. Who is going to pay 30 per cent? There ought to be no duty at all. The best market for paintings ever had was the American."

The Market Closes Weak and Slightly Lower—Quotations.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Governments strong. Railways weak, lower. Stocks opened strong and quickly advanced ¼@½ per cent. About 11 o'clock a weaker feeling prevailed. After midday selling met with some little resistance and prices rallied fractionally. The market closed weak compared with last night. Closing prices are ¼ to 1¼ per cent lower.

BEYOND THE ROCKIES.

A Terrific Wind Storm Sweeps Over Denver, Colorado.

BOLD TEXAS BANK ROBBERY FRUSTRATED.

Relations of the Militia to the Government—Carl Schurz Refuses $100,000—Wiggins Claims More Storms will Occur.

DENVER, March 27.—The most disastrous wind storm in many years struck this city at 10 o'clock this morning. At this hour (1 P. M.) it continues with unabated fury. Many of the finest buildings in the city, including the city hall, Moffatt & Kassler's, Symes & Clifford's blocks, are unroofed. Signs and awnings have been torn down and scattered everywhere. For several hours together the wind maintained a velocity of sixty miles an hour. Several persons were injured, though none fatally. Telegraphic communication with outside towns has been interrupted, and it is impossible to estimate the loss at present.

HIGH WINDS IN MISSOURI.

KANSAS CITY, March 27.—A high wind early this evening unroofed two brick houses on Tenth and Campbell streets and slightly damaged another small dwelling. It also tore up sidewalks for a distance of about two squares. This is the same quarter of the city that was visited by a cyclone last year.

WIGGINS' PREDICTIONS AGAIN.

OTTAWA, March 27.—Wiggins says: "The second and heavier of the twin storms predicted six weeks ago by me will cross the meridian of Halifax to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The breadth of the storm belt will be on a line from Quebec to Sandy Hook and earthquakes will occur in divers places. The cyclones yesterday in Kentucky and the earthquakes in California are the advance guard. The tide on the balance of the coast will be high and wide and will spread [illegible]. I would advise shippers to clear their wharves of all perishable goods and let the shipping in the stream and at the docks be secured by extra anchors and double fastenings."

OTHER VICTIMS OF THE CYCLONE.

HAMILTON, O., March 27.—The cyclone that destroyed the village of [illegible] Tuesday afternoon besides killing Mr. Winston fatally injured Mr. L. Kates and seriously hurt Mrs. Stevens. All were in the store at the time the building went down. The storm followed nearly in the track of another two years ago across the county. Collinsville, tearing down all fences and trees and ruining many farm houses and barns. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

Discussing Militia Bills.

CINCINNATI, O., March 27.—At the National Guard association this morning the time was occupied in discussing the militia bills now before congress. The preference seemed to be for the one known as the Slocum bill, but an amendment was suggested to make 400 instead of 700 men the basis for appropriation.

Slocum's bill was finally indorsed by a unanimous vote with exception before noted of the suggestion that 400 men be the basis for fixing the appropriation instead of 700 as provided in section 11. This bill is regarded by the officers of the guard in every state as meeting all the requirements of the militia from the government. A committee of five was appointed to go to Washington for the purpose of urging the passage of the Slocum bill and to present the general interests of the National guard. A discussion was also had on the subject of [illegible]. A vote of thanks was tendered to the secretary of war for responding to the request of the secretary of the association to send delegates from the regular army to the convention, also to the regular army officers who came. The next annual meeting will be held at Nashville, Tenn., January 8, 1885. Adjourned.

Great Excitement on 'Change.

CHICAGO, March 27.—Speculative excitement has really never been more highly strung than was witnessed at the opening of the change this morning. The day had been looked forward to as a possibility to witness a crisis in wheat speculations for the year. Yesterday a depression having been created and values having been lowered to such an extent that it was felt another one of the kind would cause a tumbling of the commission houses. The market opened comparatively steady but for the leading options [illegible] under the week [illegible] touched [illegible] for the day. May opened at 85¼@85½, June 89¾, July 91¼; May dropped off to 80½, rallied sharply to 85 and then more gradually to 87¾; June [illegible] 89¾c; July 90. Transactions were of the heaviest possible description, some early sales running into quarter and half millions. Our Influence Gone.

NEW YORK, March 27.—[Special.]—The Herald says the protest of European governments against those provisions of Iglesias' peace treaty between Chile and Peru which undertake to annul the [illegible] of foreign creditors in the latter country was [illegible] the present situation of affairs in the South Pacific and there is an increasing possibility of interference therein which will in some way cause severe strain upon the Monroe doctrine. This must increase the point of regret that our country has fallen out of the position of mediator in the troubles of South American republics. The gamecock policy of Blaine followed by the hymn book policy of Frelinghuysen have sunk the influence of the United States in that region to a lower level than it ever touched before.

SARGENT SENT TO RUSSIA.

The Causes which Brought About this Diplomatic Change—Frelinghuysen Cables his Congratulations.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—[Special.]—After routine business yesterday, Mr. Miller, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, asked that the senate proceed to executive business and Sargent's nomination was confirmed in executive session without reference as is the rule to a committee. There were two reasons for the celerity shown by the senate in acting on the case; the first undoubtedly was the feeling that Sargent had not been pleasantly received in Berlin and that the legislative department of the government wished to show their appreciation of his services by sanctioning without delay the action of the president; secondly, it is an unwritten rule of the senate that ex-members of that body appointed to federal offices shall be confirmed without the formality [illegible] served in other cases of recent [illegible]. Secretary Frelinghuysen immediately after the nomination was confirmed cabled to Sargent notifying him of the confirmation and congratulating him [illegible].

The events which had transpired in the course of the attempt by Sargent to prevent the prohibition of the exportation of American [illegible] and subsequently the discourteous manner in which the American minister was treated by Bismarck in the Lasker correspondence had satisfied the state department that a change would be made in the German mission. The day of Sargent's usefulness there had passed and while the department fully approved of all that he had done, it could not be blind to the fact that the [illegible] this government demanded a change. The German foreign office for many months had shown its dislike for our representative to Berlin and without passing over the bounds of diplomatic courtesy had made his position uncomfortable and burdensome. Instead of using the American minister as the medium of communication between the home government and the United States upon any subject communicated through the usual channels by the state department here to Germany Count Hatzfeld [illegible] the foreign office presumably by the direction of Bismarck ignored Sargent and used Herr Eisendecker, German minister at Washington for the transmission of his correspondence. Since the Lasker episode the American minister has been treated with greater consideration but his transfer to Russia is evidence that the administration appreciates these late courtesies at their true value. It is doubtful if a successor to Sargent will soon be appointed and there is talk of leaving the business of legislation in the hands of the first secretary for some time to come. If the settlement of the food question now pending before congress should require the presence of a United States minister in Berlin an appointment will be made.

FRELINGHUYSEN'S CONGRATULATIONS.

Secretary Frelinghuysen sent the following telegram to Minister Sargent last evening:

Sargent, Minister to Berlin: The president approves entirely your course in the Lasker matter. You have done nothing but obey the instructions of this government therein. The president thinking it may be agreeable to you, to-day nominated you as minister to St. Petersburg, and your nomination without reference to any committee was immediately unanimously confirmed by the American senate. This action is a manifest appreciation of your worth and does you an honor of which any citizen may well be proud.

(Signed) FRELINGHUYSEN.

PRESS COMMENT.

NEW YORK, March 27.—[Special.]—The Tribune in an editorial note says: "The president has transferred Sargent from Berlin to St. Petersburg, and it relieves Sargent from a position which was most painful to him and humiliating to this country, and at the same time does so in a way that casts no reflection either on the minister or the nation. Experience will probably teach the state department something, but sadly it is no credit to the state department to have to learn wisdom in this way."

THE PRESIDENT'S ACTION PRAISED.

NEW YORK, March 27.—[Special.]—All journals praise the president's action regarding Sargent as well as Frelinghuysen's letter.

It seems generally conceded that his transfer is hardly a promotion and the World's Washington special doubts if the change will be acceptable to Sargent. St. Petersburg is considered one of the most undesirable posts in Europe for a man of small means. It is a very expensive place, where ministers are required in order to maintain any sort of a standing to entertain upon a large scale. Sargent has some of his children with him whom he has placed in school and this sudden transfer must cause him great embarrassment and discomfort. [illegible] officials at the state department who leak out the gossip of that sacred edifice have claimed for a long time that Sargent is unpopular at Berlin. He is too rough a western man for Berlin society.

E. W. Smalley, of the Tribune, says: "He early [illegible] with a singular disregard of certain conventions alienated not only diplomatists but all persons in whose company a diplomatist is likely to find himself except a small set of [illegible]. He became [illegible] of Berlin society. In his diplomatic functions he was scarcely more fortunate. It is easy [illegible] of him that he shunned intercourse with the ministry of the government to which he was accredited and alienated the society of the most implacable [illegible]. In discharge of his purely official duties he contrived to give offense. We sent him to the most punctilious court in Europe and his neglect of etiquette on occasions of the greatest ceremony amounted to scandal and was the talk of all capitals. Europe was against him. The laugh was against him. What I am saying is but a very brief and colorless summary of what I have heard from the beginning of Sargent's tenure of his present post. Any body who knows what has been commonly said here and all over the continent will add to it much more piquant details which it is needless to mention in point."

The value and accuracy of much of Smalley's criticism is impaired by his concluding suggestion as follows: "It is impossible that Sargent should be a useful minister at Berlin. He might, perhaps, be a good man to open up relations with the Mahdi."

WILL PROBABLY BE LEFT VACANT.

As it will be no loss no successor to Sargent is nominated to the senate. It is customary to make two nominations under circumstances like the present, it being taken for granted that one depends on the other, that of the successor failing if the recall, promotion or the transfer of the first is not approved. The omission of the nomination of a successor to Sargent encourages the belief that it may be the intention of the administration to leave vacant for a while the position of United States Minister to Berlin. Such an omission could not be construed as a token of resentment, but since our regularly accredited representative has been treated with marked rudeness and discourtesy we may take it for granted that the German government speaking through the chancellor of the empire has expressed its indifference to a continuance of dignified diplomatic relations with us; we would be wanting in proper self respect if this snub were without result.

The World also says: "Now let the Berlin mission remain vacant a while."

HORATIO SEYMOUR INTERVIEWED.

He Recognizes the Demands of the West as Worthy of Attention—Why Tilden would Make a Good President.

NEW YORK, March 27.—The Mail and Express has an interview with ex-Governor Horatio Seymour on the political situation. He expressed an opinion that the longer continuance of a protective tariff may provoke retaliatory legislation on the part of England and other European nations. As to presidential candidates he expressed the opinion that the nomination of Tilden would be wise for the democracy. The following question and answer gives the gist of the interview in this respect:

"And you do not believe Tilden too feeble to perform the duties of the presidency?"

"Well they say he cannot talk now; that is a positive advantage. No man was ever yet hurt by what he did not say, and I say without the least hesitation that what we want in the presidential chair are men who think more and talk less. A man should have [illegible] before he enters the White House [illegible]."

NEW YORK, March 27.—[Special.]—Horatio Seymour in a two column interview in the Mail and Express says: "The two great issues of the day are commerce, trade and the tariff. With regard to the last I think it is exciting great interest in the future and it threatens to divide, with regard to it, the western from the eastern states. I see that even now the west is coming to show symptoms of revolt against the supremacy. Its people instead of asking favors are now demanding what they deem to be their rights. The western states feel a deep interest in the improvement of their water ways. On this subject the acts of congress with regard to river and harbor bills have been generally condemned by the journals and sentiments of the east. The bearing of this question upon the next election will depend upon the action of this congress. The wants of the west are the easier to exert a controlling influence upon government policy. I think in the main the democratic party is in favor of a revenue tariff and the republican party is in favor of a protective tariff."

During the first twenty four days of this month over [illegible] tons of Carbonado coal was dispatched from the coal bunkers at Tacoma. The San Pedro took 2,000 tons.

Over 300 tax payers at Walla Walla have signed a petition [illegible] be submitted [illegible] council will act in the matter at their next meeting.

Chicken George, who accidentally shot himself in the thigh Tuesday, is in the Fanny Paddock hospital, Tacoma, and his condition has improved enough to warrant expectation that the wound will not prove fatal.

An unusual amount of improvement is visible this spring in Washougal City, which is situated fifteen miles above Vancouver, on the Columbia. Four [illegible] have been newly cleared off and fenced and more is being done in this line.

A project is on foot to bore for an artesian well near Vancouver. An attempt is being made to get $1000 subscribed for this purpose. It is said that a twenty horse power engine would furnish sufficient power to bore down 1600 feet in ten days.

Young David Wallace, who had the misfortune to shoot himself with a shot gun while hunting on the [illegible] recently and who was for a while in the hospital has so far recovered that he has been taken home. He lost his left arm above the elbow, and the wound in his left breast was very serious, although it is healing.

The funeral of W. H. Armstrong, who committed suicide at Walla Walla a few days ago took place on Tuesday and was well attended by delegations from Enterprise and Washington lodges I. O. O. F., the Grand Army of the Republic, about 200 U. S. soldiers, Captain Wagner, Drs. Gardiner and Wilson, Lieuts. Harvey, [illegible], McDonald and Goode besides quite a number of citizens in carriages.

THE LATE PHILIP FOSTER.

Of the late Philip Foster the Oregon City Enterprise has the following sketch:

On Friday, March 14, Mr. Foster was in his usual health, went around as was his wont in the morning, came home at noon and sat down and ate a hearty meal. After dinner he lighted his pipe and got as far as the door to go out but called his son Egbert to prevent him from falling, which was done. He was kindly taken care of but never regained consciousness again.

Mr. Foster was born near [illegible], Maine, June 29, 1805. He married Miss Mary E. Pettygrove at Calais, Maine, who was a sister of F. W. Pettygrove of Port Townsend, W. T., with whom he left Maine for Oregon about [illegible], arriving in Oregon City May 1843. He took up the claim on which he died in 18[illegible] and has lived on it ever since. His house was the first one the old emigrants, who came the plains across, encountered after they left the Mississippi river. There is hardly one among the old pioneers but will remember Mr. Foster. It was at his house they got their first fruit and vegetables after the dusty, weary journey over the overland [illegible] and many will remember the pleasant day spent near his place in resting themselves, cattle and horses, before their destination was reached. The view of his farm from the hill beyond, to a tired emigrant, was that of a perfect paradise [illegible] one of the most beautiful spots in Oregon. Mr. Foster as well as his late wife was ever generous and hospitable, and their many acts of kindness to the needy will be remembered [illegible] Mr. Foster [illegible] and twenty six grandchildren [illegible]

My husband has not been so clear or voice so strong in years. I recommend Ely's Cream Balm to all afflicted with Catarrh or Cold in the head.—J. O. Tichenor, Dealer in Shoes, Elizabeth, N. J.

The San Francisco "Chronicle's" Opinion of the Coeur d'Alene Mines.

GAMBLING TO BE SUPPRESSED IN VICTORIA.

California Creditors Attach a Seattle Firm—Some Valuable Property in Tacoma Discovered to be Government Land.

The Chronicle on the Coeur d'Alene Mines.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27.—With respect to the Coeur d'Alene mines the Chronicle is an active bear and whenever speaking of them advises adventurers to go slow. This morning it says: "There is nothing to justify the reports which have been circulated as to the richness of the country in minerals. The ground is covered with snow and the middle of June will be the earliest date at which any prospecting can be done. The country is flat and covered with timber and water can be found for miles. The land is generally held in twenty acre tracts under the United States mining law, ledges being 15 feet in width. The actual condition of the country is known by none. It is as unknown as if it lay in the heart of Africa. Its resources are yet to be tested. It is folly for any man to go there expecting to obtain work. There is no work there for them. Provisions are obtained at an enormous cost and prices must rise as the rush [illegible]. The influx of miners will necessitate a demand which the limited number of pack trains now carrying merchandise from the railroad to the Coeur d'Alene mines cannot supply. Nothing in the way of prospecting can be done for six weeks or more and therefore the gentleman who furnishes this information warns any one from going there at present. If the mines are rich the fact is yet to be ascertained. To go there now would only involve hardships, sickness and probably death."

Another Day of the Sharon Hill Case.

He further testified that on his arrival in this city Miss Hill said to him she would give anything in the world if he would say Sharon had been engaged to her as his wife. He replied that his statements were on record and that it was impossible. [illegible] testimony has been postponed till Monday next.

THE FIRE RECORD.

ELEVATOR SHAFT BURNED.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Fire was discovered in the elevator shaft of the new war department building last evening. The entire fire department was called out. Great excitement prevailed, and there was fear of the flames spreading to other parts of the building occupied by state, war and navy departments. The fire however was soon extinguished. Only small damage was done—merely burning outside the elevator shaft. Loss, $3000. The fire caught from the gas jet.

CUTICURA THE GREAT SKIN CURES

THOUSANDS OF LETTERS in our possession repeat this story: I have been a terrible sufferer for years with Blood and Skin Humors; have been obliged to shun public places by reason of my disfiguring humors; have had the best physicians; have spent hundreds of dollars and got no real relief until I used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, the Great Skin Cures and Skin Beautifiers, externally, which have cured me, and left my skin and blood as pure as a child's.

ALMOST INCREDIBLE.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them and was perfectly cured. Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

STILL MORE SO.

Will McDonald, 2542 Dearborn Street, Chicago, gratefully acknowledges a cure of Eczema, or Salt Rheum, on head, neck, face, arms and legs, for seventeen years; not able to move, except on hands and knees, for one year; not able to help himself for eight years; tried hundreds of remedies; doctors pronounced his case hopeless; permanently cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

MORE WONDERFUL YET.

H. E. Carpenter, Henderson, N. Y., cured of Psoriasis or Leprosy of twenty years standing by CUTICURA REMEDIES. The most wonderful cure on record. A dustpanful of scales fell from him daily. Physicians and his friends thought he must die. Cure sworn to before a justice of the peace and Henderson's most prominent citizens.

CHEAP TRANSPORTATION.

Ex-Governor Horatio Seymour has written a letter to the New York legislature in favor of maintaining the canals by taxation alone. The reason for making them free of toll was not merely to increase the tonnage upon them but rather to cut down the cost of carrying so we could export to other countries our products. It was not a movement of hostility to the railroads for he says, "it is not true that railroads and water routes are antagonistic. While they compete in some respects in many others they promote mutual interest by building up the general prosperity of the country. We have proof of this," says Mr Seymour "in the fact that the most prosperous railroads run parallel to water routes. Of the hundred principal cities of our country nearly all are built at places where they have the advantage of water routes. These cheapen the cost of building and furnish at the lowest cost the crude articles which give employment to mechanics and laborers. To convert rough and coarse materials into useful articles adds many times to their value and gives profitable work to our people. The lowering of canal tolls has proved to be of great benefit to all routes of commerce. "Of this we have a striking proof," he says, "in the reports by the general government with regard to the commerce and navigation of the United States including the year 1882. It shows that from 1835 to 1873 a period of thirty eight years the balance of trade was against our country except during eight years. This brought upon us the commercial disasters which culminated in the year 1873. After the policy of low tolls was adopted by a series of reductions the balance of trade for the past eight years has been in our favor. In 1883 it amounted to $100 658 488. The balances of trade in favor of this country since low tolls have existed have given prosperity to businesses of all kinds in every part of the state. This change added immensely to the value of railroad stocks as well as to the prosperity of all classes and pursuits of our state."

This is merely another way of saying what we have been insisting upon that cheap transportation increases the general prosperity of the country to such a degree that the railroads are benefited by it quite as much as their patrons are. Heavy taxes upon transportation depress and stifle production because these taxes fall only on our home productions. Any reduction in the cost of transportation is equivalent to a nearer approach to markets. As Mr Seymour says, "our exports grow up as carrying rates are cut down." As labor is higher in this country than in India South America and Australia, we can only compete with those countries in supplying Europe with food by low rates of transportation. We can sell to Europe only by having cheap modes of sending our products to their markets. The railroads are as much concerned in this subject as the farmers. Their interests are mutually related. But the railroads are so apt to conduct their business with a view to mere temporary profits that in order to bring about and steadily maintain a good understanding between them and their customers, or in the words of the constitution "to establish justice and promote domestic tranquillity" in this important matter it is necessary to set a watch upon the railway companies, and bring to bear upon them constantly the force of public opinion enlightened organized and armed with powers sufficient to curb but not to cripple, to check but not to destroy, and at the same time to liberalize the views of railroad managers to enlarge the horizon of their vision by the authoritative advice and counsel of men whose relations to the public are wider and more general. This is what a railroad commission is capable of doing and what it is needed to do. It has done this in Massachusetts where as the commissioners in their last annual report say "no charge of unreasonable preference or discrimination by a lower charge for the longer haul has this year been brought before the board except in two cases where the evidence wholly failed to support the charges. Unjust discriminations have altogether ceased in Massachusetts, which is a gratifying result of twelve years experience with a railroad commission. The railroad problem has not been fully solved in Massachusetts but both the railroads and the public have been greatly benefited and liberalized by means of the considerations of broad public policy which Mr C F Adams Jr and his associates and successors in the railway commission have brought to bear upon them."

PAY YOUR TAXES

A misunderstanding of the effect of Judge Deady's opinion on the mortgage tax law is likely to get many persons into trouble about their taxes. It is evident from the slowness with which taxes are being paid and from numerous other incidents that the supposition is very prevalent that no tax can be lawfully collected, and in particular that taxes cannot be collected on mortgages or on notes secured by mortgage. But in fact the new mortgage tax law does not change the old law except as to the definition of real estate and as mortgages were always taxable so they are yet. On the tax roll of this county the mortgages stand assessed in bulk mainly, as "mortgages and other liens on real property," as heretofore. Under the old law, therefore the tax is still collectable and even granting that the new law is void the sheriff has the right and it is his duty to make a sheriff's assessment of all mortgages and to proceed against the property of the mortgagee for collection of the tax. Of course the sheriff will use in making his assessment, the information obtained through the inquisitions of the new mortgage tax law, all of which is matter of record, and he can also garnish for payment of the tax any debt which may be due to the taxpayer. It is plain, therefore, that those who do not pay will only make costs for themselves. The foreign money lenders send their notes out of the state, and in most of the counties they probably have no personal property that can be reached, but when the notes come back for payment (the dates upon which they fall due being matters of record) they can be garnished also for the taxes under the old law. The result, so far as the foreign money lender is concerned will be that he will have to pay the taxes assessed against him, or the legislature at the next session will pass a law forbidding him to do business in the state. THE OREGONIAN, as is well known thinks it bad policy to tax credits but the temper of the people throughout the state is unmistakably for such taxation and they will not be trifled with.

A southern newspaper editor has found as the result of his inquiries, that there is a pretty general rule that dog owners shall in some way pay for the missing sheep. In Vermont dogs are taxed $1 each and the money goes to the towns to pay for sheep killed. Rhode Island taxes the animals $5 each, and estrays without collars may be killed by any one. In New York each county is empowered to impose taxes on dogs to pay for sheep and the assessments run from fifty cents to three dollars. Mississippi has a similar law. In Pennsylvania Illinois, Kansas and North Carolina owners of dogs are made specially liable for damage done by them, and in the state first named an attorney's fee may be included in the judgment. The Ohio tax is $1 each, and any one may kill a dog off the owner's premises. Michigan collects $1 on dogs and $3 on bitches and a man who knowingly keeps a dog with the mutton habit may be sent to jail for three months. In South Carolina dogs are returned as personal property at $5 each, and taxed accordingly, and owners are liable for double damages to sheep. Missouri taxes dogs $1 and bitches $2 each, and West Virginia has a kind of local option so that each county acts its pleasure in the matter.

THE TRUE LAND POLICY

Hardly a steamer arrives from California but brings us from eighty to a hundred men of a desirable class, men who have been virtually driven out of California by the execrable land policy of that state—a policy which taxes the poor man's land at its cash value and allows the Spanish grant holder to slip his broad acres through the county board of equalization at one tenth of what it could be sold for. This virtually throws the expense of the state and county governments upon the shoulders of the middle classes, letting free the very rich and the very idle who have nothing to tax. It is this fact that is sending to Oregon every man who has money to buy land while land is low. Again, there is a boom in farming lands in that state which were held quite low through [illegible] before the boom was inaugurated. There is no land in America worth $3[illegible] to $100 per acre for agricultural purposes, and when land in the highest state of cultivation is sold at $250 it will need cheap rates of freight to market in order that it may be made to pay. Any such price as $250 per acre for lands untouched by the plow are speculative and afford no safe return to the investor.

The violent cyclones in the southern states and the Arctic blizzards of the northern Mississippi valley have proven potential agents in sending hither a class of emigrants who are looking for more genial climate and a life which carries with it fewer terrors for one's personal safety. On the back of these cold winters come very hot summers with excessively hot nights, so hot indeed as to preclude all hope of sleep, and these hot summers and cold winters are warping no small part of the population out of the states in the center of the continent. And when these people come here with the hope of settling among us they should not be driven off by prohibitory prices such as prevail in California. They should be welcomed among us and given every reasonable inducement to settle in our midst. Most of our farmers have the erroneous idea that the real value of land depends upon its area, that is that land which lies in a body of 1100 to 2000 acres is more valuable to the acre than smaller tracts of land. Now the only condition of things that could render this a possibility is the reversion of our state to its semi civilized condition of many years ago when the Willamette valley lands were simply pastures for beef and mutton. That day has long since gone by; the lands in the Willamette and Umpqua valleys have become so valuable for agriculture that they are no longer available for pasturage and the nomadic element which has no higher aim than to grow rich by the spontaneous increase of dumb beasts long since began to move eastward upon the sagebrush plains of eastern Oregon and Idaho. The development of our state into the conditions that now exist has left these good old people a little at one side.

From the time you cross the Clackamas or the Tualatin on the road south, no matter which side of the river you take, you find a class of people who are known as land poor. They have kept on acquiring more and more land, regardless of how they were going to cultivate it or how they are going to get their money back out of it. Will they sow it to beets and timothy grass and use its product in stall feeding beef? Oh no, they will tell you it does not pay to feed—better let the cattle starve through the winter and lose twenty per cent of all you have, rather than feed and house your stock as they should be housed and fed. And why does it not pay? Men make it pay in Illinois where they have twice as cold winters as we do and therefore have to build warmer barns and supply a greater amount of fodder to each animal kept. And why should it not be made to pay in Oregon? The truth is that Oregon has been sadly wanting in thrift and she feels it to day. Look at your well to do farmers all the way from Sauvie's island to Jacksonville and from [illegible] river to Weston, and what are they? Simply men who farm on the old Yankee ideas and pay cash for nothing that can be grown upon a farm. That is the only element that can hope to grow rich in Oregon and they are coming here from all directions. Such men add to the material wealth of every country and should be induced to stay.

If every man who has six hundred acres of land to sell will use proper discretion in disposing of it there will be no fear of his being able to obtain a large average price for it in the long run as there will be no lack of buyers. If such a man owning such a body of land will sell one-sixteenth to each of four different purchasers at the same time or within the same year he will have no difficulty in disposing of the rest of his land to the same parties. In three years they will be able to buy another fourth of his land at say $40 per acre allowing that they paid $28 for the first purchase. In 1890 they would be able to buy another quarter at $55 or $60 and about 1894 the old proprietor would be in a position to sell his remaining quarter for $100 per acre. In this way the farmer could sell his land at an average of $55 75 and yet get fair interest on what he sells besides having a living for his family on what he retains. Or he might be able to close out his entire farm for $40 at the start, but the other way is the safest for all concerned.

In some parts of the state the land is held by a few men in such bodies as to make it a serious matter. In Douglas county this is particularly the case, for wheat culture is somewhat limited there as the high rates of transportation to tide water leaves small profit for the producer. Most of the land is devoted to the production of cattle and sheep, and belongs to a very unprogressive element in a general way. The writer could not help thinking it was just so much the worse for the country when he heard one of these old fellows remark at Roseburg one day that he owned the land on which eleven families had formerly resided. Nobody wants to see the country held in subjection by such a class as this. The ideal condition of a prosperous country is a country cut up into small farms of forty to one hundred acres and every foot of ground tilled to its utmost capacity. If parties coming in here with money can be given reasonable figures and are not driven off by prohibitory prices we shall soon see this condition of affairs prevailing in Oregon. The old timers who prefer stock raising to farming will succeed in selling off their valley property and will settle up the valleys of the Des Chutes and Snake rivers; the Willamette valley lands will be occupied by a more thrifty and economical class who will plant something else than wheat and cut [illegible] out of the land, and the coast region from Chetco cove to the Clatsop plains will be one continuous line of dairy farms. And we shall not be compelled to get all our beef from east of the Cascades either, for the new men will stall feed a few head of cattle on every farm utilizing the straw that now goes to waste. Under a different order of things Oregon would be the richest of the Pacific states and the dawn of a day when that order of things will prevail is not very far off.

Two chapters of Blaine's forthcoming history have been given to the world through the newspapers. Of Mr Buchanan Mr Blaine says "His fame would have been more enviable had he never been elevated to the presidency." This is epigrammatic, but Tacitus from whom the idea is borrowed beats it in pith and point. He is speaking of Galba who was emperor for a few months but forgot as Shakespeare expresses it that "a scepter snatched with an unruly hand must be as boisterously maintained as gained," and so fell through his own irresolution—Major privato visus dum privatus fuit, et omnium consensu capax imperii, nisi imperasset. "He seemed greater than a private man so long as he was one, and the suffrages of mankind would have pronounced him worthy of empire, had he never been emperor." Mr Blaine, in borrowing the idea, weakens its expression. But, as Froude says "Beyond all question or comparison the greatest writer who has as yet devoted himself to historical composition was Caius Tacitus." To take a hint from Tacitus may therefore be a sufficient honor for Mr Blaine or any other modern writer.

ONLY PERPLEXING TO ORGANS

The Standard says "it is difficult to see how the New York Times after what it has said of Mr Blaine could if he were to be nominated at Chicago give him its support. Eight years ago at the eve of the Cincinnati convention it assaulted him furiously and served up the Mulligan letters day after day in every style for the breakfast dinner and supper of the Maine statesman. It still fires its heaviest guns at him without any apparent consideration of the perplexing situation it would be in as a republican organ if the wily historian were to capture the national convention." There would we think nothing perplexing to the Times in the situation. It is not an organ but a newspaper, a republican newspaper in the best sense of that term which has political principles which values beyond party success. If Mr Blaine shall be nominated for president the Times would probably do what it did when a nomination for governor of New York was forced upon the party by the national administration. It would refuse to support him. This is what it ought to do entertaining the opinion it does of Mr Blaine's political and personal honesty and what we confidently believe it would do. And this is what so many independent republicans would do that the serious mention of Mr Blaine as a candidate is so extremely presumptuous as to merit the rebuff which the attempt of Grant the third term by machine methods justly received and under which it failed. The truth is that Mr Blaine though an interesting and popular man does not possess the confidence of that portion of the public—that remnant of the republican party in which its traditional character as the organized conscience of the nation is preserved—which will not respond to the [illegible] plan for a lively campaign and therefore his nomination would be as scandalous as his own personal character. Ex-Governor Claflin of Massachusetts says that Blaine could not carry that state. We think there is no doubt he would be defeated in New York. The thoughtful people of the country have lost confidence in him and will not support him, because as Wellington once said the most dreadful thing in war next to a great defeat, is a great victory. So independent and thoughtful voters would regard a great victory under Blaine as worse than a great defeat because in their opinion, he stands for all that is disreputable and dangerous in the various constituents of the republican party. Our Portland contemporary has misunderstood the tone and purpose of the Times or it would not expect it to reverse its guns if the Chicago convention should be captured by the wily historian.

The Blair educational bill on which Dolph and other senators spoke on Wednesday provides in substance: 1. That there shall be an annual appropriation from the government funds during the next ten years beginning with $15 000 000 for the first year and diminishing by $1 000 000 each subsequent year—that is first year $15 000 000 second year $14 000 000 third year $13 000 000 and so on. 2. That this money shall be divided among the several states and territories according to prevailing illiteracy, that is in the same proportion which the number of persons over 10 years of age who cannot read or write within the state bears to the whole number of such persons in the United States. 3. That no part of the money thus appropriated shall be paid to any state which shall not during the first five years expend at least one third as much as its share of the national funds for the maintenance of common schools and an equal amount during the second five years of the term. 4. That part of the fund shall be used for the erection of school houses or school buildings of any description or for the rent of the same except that in states where the illiterate persons are not more than 5 per cent of the whole population, the state legislature may direct how the national fund shall be expended. The other provisions of the bill are designed to protect the honest administration and proper expenditure of the proposed fund. The sum would not be large when divided among the states and territories. It would be too small indeed to effect much even at the start and would dwindle in a few years to insignificant proportions. The money would go mostly to the southern states.

To the imagination of Theodore Winthrop the word "Tacoma" or at least its perpetuation is due. The story about Mount Rainier which he dressed up as a legend calling it "Tacoma" has given a name to an important and growing town and may give the name to a state. It is more than thirty years since the author of "The Canoe and Saddle" of "John Brent" and of "Cecil Dreeme" made his rapid ride over the Cascade mountains from Nisqually to Yakima and The Dalles and nearly twenty three years since he fell while leading a charge at Big Bethel Va at the age of thirty two. Tacoma may one day establish a memorial hall a library or a fountain to honor the man through whom the city found its name. His sister has prepared and just published "The Life and Poems of Theodore Winthrop" and the book stores now have it on sale. His own letters and journals tell most of the story of his life. The poems are scattered throughout the volume, with an attempt to introduce them in the narrative at about the time when they were written. Most of them are fragmentary and did not receive the final touches which their author would have given them for publication. The most ambitious effort is a poem of sixty pages in blank verse called "Two Worlds." It was written when he was twenty seven years of age with a view to publication and was thrown aside when prose writing received his entire attention. The editor says "It appeared at first too unfinished to give to the public but upon careful study it seemed only necessary to cut off redundances to show that it is one of his best works and worthy of his reputation." His was a fine genius and literature suffered a great loss in his untimely death.

It is said that some 2?0 operatives in the Paterson silk mills in New Jersey have imbibed disloyal sentiments in regard to protection and have presented their views somewhat in this style: "No matter what the tariff was the working class received no benefit from it. Their wages was neither advanced when the tariff was increased nor were they reduced when it was lowered. Their condition is worse every day while the manufacturers have all got rich, built mansions, drive fancy turnouts, extend and beautify their mills and live a life of luxury all on the strength of the protective tariff which is supposed to benefit employes and employer alike but which in fact only benefits the latter." They said they expected the abolition of the tariff would reduce their wages but there would be other advantages that would make up for it in the shape of cheaper clothing and food and consequently lower rents. There would be less money in circulation but they could get more for it than at the present time. These sentiments are much more common than is generally known because the constraint which rests upon operatives prevents their free expression. The capitalists naturally rely upon the circumstances of the situation to prevent the disloyalty of their laborers from breaking out into overt acts of hostility at the polls. Thus the high protective tariff is maintained by an enforced alliance combination of its natural enemies with its natural friends.

William Shull, a new recruit of the First cavalry met with a painful and serious accident at Fort Walla Walla Tuesday evening, which will disable him for some time to come. While leading his horse the halter rope became entangled in his legs, and the animal taking fright started off, dragging him some distance and breaking his leg. Shull is the step-son of Fred Page-Tustin of Pendleton and enlisted while under age. Repenting of his contract to serve Uncle Sam he had written to his mother to assistance and she will endeavor to obtain his release.

THE ELECTORAL VOTE

The electoral colleges of the several states now contain an aggregate of 401 members. Conceding to the democrats all the southern states that party will start off with 153 assured electoral votes as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Alabama | 10 | Mississippi | 9 |
| Arkansas | 7 | Missouri | 16 |
| Delaware | 3 | North Carolina | 11 |
| Florida | 4 | South Carolina | 9 |
| Georgia | 12 | Tennessee | 12 |
| Kentucky | 13 | Texas | 13 |
| Louisiana | 8 | Virginia | 12 |
| Maryland | 8 | West Virginia | 6 |
| Total | | | 153 |

There is a possibility however that some of these states may be lost to that party but the republicans can count on the following with more safety than the democrats can base their hopes on the following, which by any rational calculation must be conceded to the republicans:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Colorado | 3 | Minnesota | 7 |
| Connecticut | 6 | Nebraska | 5 |
| Illinois | 22 | New Hampshire | 4 |
| Iowa | 13 | Oregon | 3 |
| Kansas | 9 | Pennsylvania | 30 |
| Maine | 6 | Rhode Island | 4 |
| Massachusetts | 14 | Vermont | 4 |
| Michigan | 13 | Wisconsin | 11 |
| Total | | | 154 |

The real contest then between the parties will be for the votes of the following commonwealths:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| New York | 36 | Ohio | 23 |
| California | 8 | Indiana | 15 |
| Nevada | 3 | | |
| New Jersey | 9 | Total | 94 |

To elect the president 201 votes will be required. Out of these doubtful states named in the last table the republicans must get forty seven votes and the democrats forty eight votes to win. We do not think there is any probability that Ohio, although classed as doubtful because it went democratic on the liquor question last year will go democratic in the presidential election. But Ohio Indiana and California would not give the republicans the victory if New York New Jersey and Nevada were left to the democrats. It is almost certain that if New York goes democratic New Jersey will also. As for Nevada democratic cash has for some years had the call in that corrupt little pocket borough. Without New York either party might possibly win but it may be set down as almost certain that the party which carries New York will elect the president.

The Boston Herald advises the democratic party not to give up the fight for the presidency too easily and says by way of encouragement that they may succeed. But there is only one way in which they can do this—by reducing the taxes, keeping the expenditures within reasonable (which does not mean stingy) limits, supporting the civil service law, curtailing silver coinage and passing the half dozen or more important measures which the republicans have persistently neglected, including the bankruptcy act, the bill for the regulation of presidential inability and succession and a bill granting national aid to education." In other words the Herald might have said there would be nothing to prevent the success of the democratic party if its leaders did not want as the substantial fruits of victory precisely what the republican leaders have enjoyed. If the party was truly democratic, the friend and supporter of the people instead of the procession which follows the band wagon of the republican machine it would still have a chance. But these suggestions are very much as the Evening Post says, like telling a drowning man in mid ocean that he may be saved if he will only get together material and build a boat.

While the government workmen were grading on a road within the reservation at Vancouver a few days ago, they unearthed a skeleton buried very shallow which crumbled when handled. With the remains were [illegible] fringe and buckskin. This would indicate that the body was buried within the present century probably [illegible] the Hudson Bay Company's rule.

Advertisements such as "Wants," "Help Wanted" "To Let," "For Sale" etc. will be inserted for ten cents per line first insertion, five cents per line thereafter. No insertion for less than 30 cents and cash must be paid at the counter.

TURN HALLE BURNED

At 2:30 o'clock this morning fire broke out in the rear room of S. L. Beery's restaurant in Turn Halle building corner of Fourth and Yamhill streets and soon enveloped the whole building.

An alarm was turned in from box 21 and quick response was made by the department but there seemed to be almost fatal delay in getting water. The lower part of the building is in ruins. Beery's stock is a total loss.

Prof. Verney who slept up stairs barely escaped with his life. He lost his violin music and all his clothing except that on his back. The building and the stock of Beery are likely insured. Facts could not be learned at the late hour.

At 3 A. M. the fire seemed to be under control, though it appeared to have caught in the scenery of the second story. The interior of the building is of course ruined.

INVESTIGATING THE DEPUTY CHIEF

Very Little Progress the First Evening—Bill tries to get his Customary Document Read and Fails

The council committee on health and police and the judiciary committee met at the council chamber last evening to investigate the charges made by Policeman Johnson against the deputy chief of police for taking his star away on a false charge of theft. The members of the committees were a little behind time in arriving, but the deputy chief was on hand early and about fifteen minutes before the time set for the meeting shied his castor into the ring that is he pranced into the empty council chamber strode up to the foot of the throne, pulled forth his glasses and placed them astride his Grecian nasal organ. He then beamed through them on the beautiful picture "Washington and his Generals" which hangs behind the throne for some moments and then cast a thoughtful glance at the green upholstering of the mayor's seat and the curtains inclosing it as if thinking how well his sky blue coat brass buttons and complexion would contrast with the outfit. Then pulling forth from his breast pocket a voluminous document, he proceeded to pore over it for some time with evident pleasure in his classic features. At length with a deep drawn sigh of satisfaction and a sort of lion in his den Douglas-in his-hall air, he began to pace the room.

At length Councilman Andrus arrived and in his wake a couple of reporters ventured to enter. There was no fire, which gave an idea of an intention to freeze out some one. Presently Captain Turner arrived and built a fire and more councilmen and spectators dropped in. Then the deputy chief, who had been pacing the room seated himself and drawing forth his voluminous document looked over it again critically and evidently detecting where the person who wrote it for him had failed to make the point wished whereupon the deputy chief seized a pen and with many contortions of countenance like a schoolboy taking a first lesson succeeded in interpolating a word. By this time Councilmen Andrus Gerdes Chittenden and Sears had arrived. Judge Adams however did not appear nor had Policeman Johnson or his counsel been seen.

Gerdes proposed that the committee adjourn till next evening at 7:30.

The deputy chief stated that he wished to present his answer to the charges made against him to the committee.

Gerdes thought no one would be much the loser if the reading of this document was deferred till the committee met again, and suggested that it be filed with the auditor.

Some one suggested that it be placed on ice to prevent putrefaction.

At this juncture Mr Johnson arrived and stated that he had not been until a few minutes before notified of the meeting of the committee, and was not prepared with counsel or witnesses.

In reply to the inquiry of the deputy chief Captain Turner said he had notified Mr Johnson.

Mr Johnson said it was the first he had heard of it.

Gerdes said he preferred that the whole committee should be present and both sides in the case fairly represented, and the deputy chief kept insisting that his document should be read.

After some little discussion it was decided to adjourn till Saturday night.

After Councilman Andrus and a number of the spectators had departed Councilman Adams arrived.

The committee was then called to order and Mr Gerdes elected chairman, and the deputy chief renewed his effort to have his beloved voluminous document read.

Gerdes thought it was not at that time necessary, as he wished justice done both sides and Johnson had no counsel present.

The deputy chief said "I have no counsel and no witnesses. I am here to defend myself. I feel confident to do it. This is no small matter. It is a matter that the dignity of the department is interested in."

Adams said Johnson had a right to a copy of the document of the deputy chief who kindly said he would furnish a copy to THE OREGONIAN for publication.

After some discussion on motion the document was ordered read and the deputy with a smile nearly as voluminous as the document placed the latter in Councilman Sears hands.

Mr Johnson protested against the reading of the document while his counsel was absent.

Judge Adams said it was not right that it should be read until Johnson had seen it and had time to prepare an answer to it.

Gerdes said the country would not suffer by the thing being put off a few days and it was finally handed over to the auditor for safe keeping in a refrigerator, and the meeting adjourned till Saturday evening at 7:30.

BRIEF MENTION.

Minstrel matinee to-morrow.

The Columbia arrived at 8:30 last night.

The remains of the late Martin Spelling arrived by last night's steamer, and were taken to A. P. DeLin's establishment.

The engagement of Emerson's minstrels positively closes this week. The company leave Victoria April 4 for San Francisco.

Al Sherwood on trial in Justice Bushwiler's court for assaulting Mrs Perkinson, demanded a jury trial and was acquitted.

The grading of the road through the city park for which the contract will be let on Monday next will amount to 6000 cubic yards.

George Wright Post, G. A. R. will hold a campfire to-night at their hall above Prentice's music store. A very interesting programme has been prepared.

Arrangements are about to be made with Professor Chas. H. Reed for one more of his wonderful entertainments to be given in town prior to his departure for Australia, where he goes under contract.

Sheriff Sears states that taxes are coming in lively now. On Wednesday he took in over $13,000 and yesterday over $15,000. There are several precincts still to be heard from, however.

If the lamp lighter who officiates in that vicinity will transpose the names of the streets in the lamp at the corner of Salmon and Fifth streets he will prevent them from leading strangers astray, as they have been doing.

The young Mr. Wortman who has just received distinction at Washington is Jacob, not Frank. His parents live at Junction. Frank is a student at the Jefferson medical college Philadelphia and will graduate next month.

Our East Portland man notices this morning an incident showing the confusion resulting from the similarity of names of this city and its sister across the river. Why not christen East Portland with the very beautiful name "Multnomah"?

MILITARY AND PERSONAL

Vancouver Independent

Post Chaplain Winfield Scott, on leave from Fort Stevens, and Chief Paymaster Rodney Smith registered at headquarters during the past week.

The new gymnasium recently constructed at the barracks was opened this week. All officers and enlisted men attend gymnastic practice three times a week.

Assistant Surgeon O. L. Heizmann U. S. A. will prolong his stay abroad for some months to come, having received an extension of leave of absence for that purpose.

First Lieut. John W. Pullman, Eighth cavalry has been appointed to the vacancy in the quartermaster's department occasioned by the dismissal of Captain I. B. Hubbard. He will have the rank of captain and assistant quartermaster. Captain Pullman went to West Point from Vancouver and is well known on this coast.

Capt. George W. Evans Twenty first infantry and Mrs. Evans have been spending a few days at West Point recently on a visit to their son cadet [illegible] Evans of the fourth class who had the ill fortune to break one of his arms while exercising in the gymnasium. The captain thinks of taking up his permanent residence in La Fayette his native place in view of his prospective early retirement from active service.

Sergt. Charles [illegible] troop K First cavalry, Sergt George Martin company G and Corporal Albert [illegible] Judson company F 8th infantry have been ordered to appear before the board convened for the purpose of examination as candidates for promotion. Corporal Ellis of the general service is also a candidate and will be ordered before the same board should his application be favorably considered by the secretary of war who alone has power to authorize non commissioned officers of the general staff to appear for examination.

The sad intelligence was received here on Saturday that First Lieut. John M. Ross Twenty first infantry died at Winchester Virginia, on the 10th inst. During his many years stay at the barracks here Lieut. Ross had made many friends who will hear with deep regret this news of his decease. Suffering from troubles of the heart, he last fall applied for leave of absence in the hope that a change to a milder climate might be of benefit, and letters received from time to time from him reported him in gradually improving health. On the 8th inst. however he was attacked by one of those affections of the heart to which he was subject and from which he failed to rally. Lieut. Ross had spent nearly twenty years of his life in the army. Entering the service as an officer of volunteers in 1861 he was transferred to the regular army as second lieutenant twenty first infantry, in 1867 and came to this coast with his regiment in 1869. He participated in the various Indian campaigns in Arizona and in the Modoc campaign in Oregon. In 1879 he was appointed adjutant of his regiment and in the succeeding year regimental quartermaster, which position he held at the time of his death. An upright and honorable man genial and courteous at all times an affectionate husband and father and a conscientious soldier he was held in high esteem by his brother officers as well as our citizens. He leaves a widow and one child who have the sincere sympathy of a host of friends in their sad bereavement.

Idaho

It is said that Moscow Idaho, is soon to have another paper.

Lewiston has made a vain attempt to organize a fire company.

A movement is on foot to establish a daily mail between Asotin and Lewiston.

Farmers are now busy plowing in many parts of the country. The prospects are favorable for a heavy spring sowing. So says the Moscow Mirror.

The roads in the vicinity of Moscow are quite good for this season of the year. Less snow has fallen in and about Moscow than in most of the upper country. Thirty miles west of Moscow has seen during the past week from a foot to two feet of snow. This freak is accounted for on the principle that when the storm comes from the west, less snow falls at Moscow and in the mountains east, but when the storm comes from the east then more snow falls in the neighborhood of Moscow than in that country west of here.

NOTES FROM HERON

Something about the Town—Captain Al Betts Discovers Gold Bearing Quartz—Struck by a Snow Plow

HERON, Montana, March 25

This town is steadily improving. The railroad company's large hotel is completed. It will shortly be opened to the traveling public. Heron is a very pleasant place to reside in summer. It is situated between high steep sloping mountains which are thickly timbered part way to their summits the remainder of the distance being rocky rugged and ribbed. A thick forest of tall straight pines almost encircles the town. The Clarke's Fork river runs by the east edge of the town from the east to the west. The town takes its name from the Heron rapids in the Clarke's Fork river near by. The rapids were named after Captain Heron who put the first steamboat on the Clarke's Fork river some ten or twelve years ago. Heron being the end or the beginning of the Idaho and Rocky Mountain division of the Northern Pacific quite a number of railroad men make their headquarters here, forming a pleasant little mountain railroad town of happy families and healthy children.

Captain Al Betts of Portland has discovered a vein of free milling gold quartz in the mountains about eight miles south of here. It is not yet ascertained what the rock will assay. Captain Betts returned to the spot yesterday with three months supply of provisions. Another party is urgently and thoroughly prospecting the Bull river which empties into the Clark's Fork river from the north. It was on the Bull river that the early miners while going through these mountains used to stop to prospect, because indications were so favorable and colors were so readily obtained.

Parsons Coyle formerly bookkeeper for some of the leading Portland houses died here May 1? 2, aged about 4? years. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that he came to his death by natural causes.

Joe Hawes a business man of Heron while walking on the railroad track at night a short time since was overtaken by a sixty mile an hour snow plow and tossed into the air like a cow and landed safe but it is not known what by the side of the track. He was badly bruised up and had a couple of ribs broken.

THE PORTLAND NATIONAL BANK.

(OF PORTLAND, OR.)

The following is taken from the prospectus of the Portland National Bank just issued. The authorized capital is $1,000,000 of which $200,000 is paid up.

This bank has been authorized by the Treasury Department at Washington to be organized as THE PORTLAND NATIONAL BANK under the National Bank Acts of the United States at the request of a number of mercantile friends to retain in Portland and extend a commercial banking business which flows to the O. & W. M. S. Bank but which it cannot carry on under its Articles of Incorporation and By Laws and consequently has been hitherto compelled to divert elsewhere.

The Portland National Bank's business will be managed by Mr. William Reid in person along with Mr. Fred Ward as Cashier who has been selected from several banks in the East and is experienced in National banking, besides which Mr. Ward has taken a large interest in the stock of the Portland National Bank.

All of the Stockholders will be residents of the Pacific coast so as strictly to make the National Bank a local and not a foreign held institution.

The Board of Directors will be residents of Portland chosen from time to time by the stockholders. The Bank will carry on its business in separate premises corner of First and Pine streets adjoining the O. & W. Mortgage Savings Bank (continuing as now under Mr. Reid's management—the two as separate institutions.) Mr. Reid's successful banking experience, his personal knowledge of the business of the State and people and his large financial interest in the Bank's paid up capital are as their guarantees of its probable success under a Portland Board of Directors as can reasonably be expected.

PROSPECTS

The only other National Bank in Portland, the First National, was organized in 1866 with a paid up capital of $100,000 since increased and now standing at $250,000 and appears from a report made to the Comptroller of the Currency in 1883 to possess in addition $400,000 of undivided profit and surplus while its gross deposits on 1st January, 1883, amounted to $2,400,000. All taxes on National Banks capital and deposits having been repealed will now add considerably to their profits.

The policy of the Portland National Bank is to do a conservative business strictly under the requirements of the National Bank Acts, chiefly with Portland. It has already been promised (from its local commercial and foreign connections), a certain amount of business which will it is thought be profitable even at the outset of its career.

It was deemed prudent only to issue 2000 shares or $200,000 of paid up stock at present and to authorize issue of the remainder of the shares pro rata afterwards to those shareholders who had first subscribed whenever the Bank's capital was increased so that no additional issue of shares is intended to be made until the further success of the Bank is demonstrated by increased experience. The Portland National will in no way be connected with the O. & W. Mortgage Savings Bank either in (Pires nature) of business or otherwise but will derive the commercial business which flows from Mr. Reid's connection with that institution which commercial business the Mortgage Savings Bank does not undertake, seeing its business is strictly limited to mortgages and similar securities over real estate which the laws of the United States specially prohibit this Portland National Bank from undertaking.

PROTECTION TO STOCKHOLDERS AND DEPOSITORS

Under the National Bank system controlling the majority of the stock cannot be done with the view of depriving smaller stockholders from receiving the same financial benefits pro rata as the largest stockholder. Officers and directors are under the strict government supervision and examination of the Comptroller of the Currency and his Bank Examiners. They are now limited to the issue of a certain amount of currency notes which must be secured by a certain amount of U. S. Bonds kept in the U. S. Treasury. Their loans to any one person or firm must never exceed one tenth of the paid up capital. Their cash reserves of coin and currency must exceed a certain amount of all deposits (they cannot be indebted to banks to an amount exceeding the paid up capital except to depositors upon bills of exchange—are prohibited from making loans over real estate securities or upon their own bank stock and cannot purchase the same. Dividends cannot be paid except from actual net profits one fifth of which must be set aside every year or a period of years, as a reserve fund before Directors can declare dividends. Every two months, and oftener if the Comptroller of the Currency shall demand it reports must be made and sworn to by three directors showing the condition of the Bank and be regularly published in certain newspapers while it is subject at all times to the personal examination and inspection of various U. S. National Bank Examiners.

EXTENSION OF NATIONAL BANK SYSTEM TO THE PACIFIC COAST

These regulations and Federal safe-guards have naturally made National Banks in the East the popular banking institutions. With the Northern Pacific Railroad now into Portland, and the Oregon Short Line next fall a larger National Bank business will yearly follow on account of the immigration hereafter coming to Oregon being chiefly from the Eastern and Western States since such immigrants will prefer their deposits in and making their banking business under the same National Bank system at Portland as that which they have left in the East.

No losses in capital have been sustained by banks in Oregon and those made in the United States, although few, were chiefly from the inexperience of Managers who had no financial interest in the paid up stock of the banks for which they acted. The large interest which the President and Cashier of the Portland National Bank possesses in its stock with Mr Reid's banking experience and his long residence in Portland place this Bank in a favorable position prospectively.

SHARES SUBSCRIBED

Three fourths of the capital stock have already been subscribed in Oregon, and deposited in the manner required by U. S. Law. Applications for the remainder of the stock will only be received from those classes whose influence and business connections in Portland will cause them to act as feeders to The Portland National Bank the object being to make it a purely local Portland institution. Arrangements have been made whereby the Bank will open for business as is expected within thirty days.

THE EAST SIDE

The summer term of school in district 21 will commence Monday next.

A republican club for Grant precinct will organize at Shute's hall to-morrow night.

It is not likely a republican club will be organized in East Portland precinct until after nominations are made.

Another child of Captain Brown of the Stark street ferry has been taken down with scarlet fever making four in all.

Everything quiet and easy in East Portland, except the reporter's mind which is sorely troubled for want of news items.

The stone foundation of Thos. Cully's three story brick building to be erected at the corner of Fourth and [illegible] is completed and sufficient time will be allowed for it to thoroughly settle before the commencement of work on the superstructure.

Uncle Jimmy Stephens is out and about again after a rather protracted spell of sickness. With the recovery of his property release from all indebtedness and restoration to health he appears to have been granted a new lease of life and prosperity and [illegible]

An unknown Anton Krupp claims that he, with two friends, called at the East Portland brewery yesterday for the purpose of buying some yeast when they were assaulted, the man in charge turning a stream of water on them from a hose without any cause or provocation.

In accordance with the action taken at the annual school meeting of district No. 21 the directors invite proposals for the sale of a block to the district in the southeast portion of the city south of Sullivan's gulch and north of U street. Proposals will be received by the Ferry Clerk not later than April 8.

The similarity of names of Portland and East Portland is a source of continual confusion and annoyance. Another instance occurred yesterday when an important letter was delayed about a month by being misdirected to Portland and returned to San Francisco. The name of East Portland should be changed by being married to Portland or by the legislature giving it a new christening not implying any connection with or dependence on Portland.

Eastern Oregon

Charles Hoover of Camas came into Pendleton the other day with a cougar skin that measured from tip of tail to end of nose nine feet and six inches. He killed the animal on the John Day.

East Oregonian: W. P. Crow passed through town last week to his claim three miles west of Echo where he proposes to try quite extensively the experiment of raising grapes and fruit on the sandy flat there. He is taking down his grape cuttings to plant now. It has for a long time been the opinion of some that nearly all the sandy land near the Columbia could be utilized for vineyards. Therefore the first experiments will be looked upon with considerable interest.

Some time ago three boys of Centerville named respectively Ed Kemp, Clarence Gillispie and William Russell were severely injured by drinking concentrated lye which was mistaken for whisky. Gillispie and Russell are much improved from the effects of their carelessness but the fate of Ed Kemp is sorrowful. He was taken to Walla Walla last Tuesday for treatment as ulcers were developed in his throat and stomach. He has been pulled down from a healthy youth to a bare skeleton.

THE FISH WHEEL CASE.

Suit for an Infringement of Patent and for an Account and Injunction.

U. S. Circuit Court—District of Oregon.

Wednesday, March 26, 1884.

Thornton F. Williams v. William R. McCord C. W. Prindle, S. B. Story and James M. McCoy.—No. 876. Suit for infringement of patent, and for an account and injunction.

(1) PATENT FOR "REVOLVING DIP NET."—The patent issued to Thornton F. Williams on August 2, 1881, and numbered 245 251 for an "Improvement in Revolving Dip Nets," declared void for want of both invention and novelty, the same having been invented and put in operation by Samuel Wilson at the Cascades of the Columbia in the spring of 1879 from which machine the said Williams, in the fall of that year and the spring of 1880, constructed his "Revolving Dip Net."

DEADY, J.

This suit was commenced on January 12, 1883, and is brought against the defendants for an account and to recover damages for the wrongful use by them of a certain "revolving dip-net," alleged to have been invented by the plaintiff, and for an injunction to restrain them from the further use thereof.

The bill alleges that the plaintiff, being the first and original inventor of such dip-net, on November 4, 1880, applied for letters patent therefor, which were duly issued to him on August 2, 1881, and numbered 245,251; that the defendants on March 1, 1882, without the consent of the plaintiff, constructed "a revolving dip-net on the south side of Bradford's island in the Columbia river, * * * embracing the improvement and invention described in said letters patent," and maintained the same "in operation during the fishing season of 1882," that is, from April 1 to August 1, to the damage of the plaintiff $100; and still continues to operate the same.

The defendants, answering the complaint, deny that the plaintiff is the original inventor of the net in question and that the same was not in public use when the plaintiff applied for his letters patent, and allege that said dip-net was fully described in Harper's Monthly Magazine for May, 1860; that Samuel Wilson of Dallas, Iowa, invented and put in operation on the Columbia river the dip-net described in the bill in April, 1879, long before the alleged invention of the plaintiff, and that the plaintiff surreptitiously availed himself of said Wilson's idea and invention and obtained a patent for the same while the latter was engaged in perfecting it; but that neither said Wilson nor the plaintiff were the first inventors of said dip-net, and that the same had been in use in other places by other persons for the purpose of catching fish for many years before, specifying among others, sundry places and persons on the Catawba and Pee Dee rivers in North Carolina, where it had been in use, in some instances for more than fifty years; that on January 4, 1882, the defendant McCord, being the first and original inventor of certain improvements in a fish wheel, made application for letters patent thereon, which on May 16 of the same year, were duly issued to him and other defendants, as the assignees of said McCord, and numbered 261,960, for an invention entitled a "Fish Wheel" that afterwards in 1882 the defendants licensed the "Snail Wheel Fishing Company," a corporation duly formed under the laws of Oregon, the defendants being the officers and stockholders thereof, to conduct such a fish wheel on the south side of Bradford's island, and that said corporation did construct and operate such wheel at said place during the fishing season of 1882, which is the same machine referred to and mentioned in the bill, as being an infringement on the plaintiff's dip-net.

It appears from the evidence that fish wheels or dipping wheels have been used on various rivers in North Carolina for the purpose of taking shad and other fish that are in the habit of ascending the same, as alleged in the answer. The wheel consisted of an axle or shaft of four or five feet in length, resting horizontally upon two upright posts or forked timbers planted on either side of a sluice or chute in the river, into which were let three pairs of arms or bows from three to eight feet long, owing to the depth of the water, and equi-distant from each other. These arms were made of tough wood, and bent forward at the outer end like a plough handle and covered with a netting of twine so as to constitute a "dipper," not unlike in appearance, according to the language of a witness, "the top of a falling top buggy."

The wheel was turned down stream by the force of the current striking the back of the "dippers," one of which was always in the water, and into which the fish ascending the stream by that chute or sluice went, and were carried upward and backward over the shaft and lodged on an inclined trough made of slats placed between the inner ends of the arms, on which they slid down into a box or tank immediately outside of the inshore post.

In the spring of 1879 and prior thereto, Samuel Wilson, a carpenter, who was living at the Cascades of the Columbia, on the Washington side, conceived the idea of taking fish by means of a wheel driven by the current, and actually constructed one and put it in operation there by April, 1879, but on account of the health of himself and family he returned to Iowa in May of that year, leaving his wheel in charge of James Parker, who took a few fish in it before the high water carried it away. Afterwards, on March 28, 1882, Wilson applied for a patent on his invention of "a new and improved fishing wheel," which was issued to him on September 12, 1882, and numbered 264,396.

In the specification it is described as "a wheel constructed with nets embraced in four or more sections thereof, to each of which nets an opening is made from the periphery or near it, and from which there is an escape passage from the center of the wheel, and at one side, to a chute leading to a cage-net, all so arranged that the wheel being located in a fish-way to be rotated by the water flowing against it or by another wheel attached to the shaft outside of the fish-way, the mouths of the passages into the nets of the wheel will open at the rear of the wheel to the fish ascending the stream, to be entered by them as they attempt to pass under the wheel, whereby as that side of the wheel rises the fish will be caught, carried up, and shunted out through the aforesaid side central passages into the chute, by which they will be delivered into the trap-cage, to be taken out at pleasure, as hereinafter more fully described." The size of the wheel might vary from 10 to 40 feet, owing to the depth of the water; and the one constructed was about 20 feet in diameter.

As early as the spring of 1877 the plaintiff lived at the Cascades of the Columbia, on the Oregon side, and was engaged in taking fish there, with the ordinary gill and dip-net; and has lived there ever since. It is asserted in his testimony that he "conceived" the idea of this revolving dip-net in the fall of 1878; and that he commenced to construct it then, but did not get the lumber in time to finish it for the fishing season 1879, and therefore abandoned it or gave it up till the fall of that year, when he went to work on it again, and got it into operation in time for the fishing season of 1880; and afterwards obtained a patent for the same, as alleged in the bill.

In his specification the plaintiff describes his alleged invention as "a new and useful improvement in revolving dip-nets," and claims "as new" therein: (1) "The box-nets I, constructed with holes M at their inner ends, substantially as herein shown and described whereby the first [fish or nets] are discharged as set forth; (2) The nets I, secured to arms of shaft E, leaving an opening at the front, except at the inner part, for the inlet of the fish, and at the rear an opening for their outlet, as shown and described; and (3) The combination, with a rotary wheel having nets I, with discharge openings M near the hub, and having the inner part inclined towards said openings, of a receptacle, J, arranged as shown and described."

But the decided weight of the evidence is that in the fall of 1878 the plaintiff was engaged in getting together the material and preparing the timbers for a fish "trap" at the Cascades, and not a wheel or net, which he never completed, and is now falsely claiming to be the conception or beginning of his "Revolving Dip-net." And that in the fall of 1879 he availed himself of his knowledge of Wilson's invention, thinking it may be, that he had abandoned it, and constructed the machine for which he afterwards obtained a patent.

In the May number of Harper's Monthly for 1880 there is a wood cut of the North Carolina wheel (p. 849), illustrating an article—"The Shad and the Alewife."

The Wilson wheel, either as patented by himself or the plaintiff, although in the main anticipated by the North Carolina wheel, was, so far as appears, constructed without any knowledge of the existence of the latter, and is an improvement upon it in some material particulars.

But the plaintiff's wheel being a mere copy of Wilson's, with some immaterial changes in form and material, his patent is void, both for want of invention and novelty. Walker on Pat., §§23, 52.

The wheel used and patented by the defendants is probably an improvement on Wilson's—particularly in the arrangement of the baskets or nets, whereby the fish are discharged below the shaft and are less liable to be injured. But as the patent to the plaintiff appears to be void for the reasons stated, it is not necessary to consider that question.

But I cannot refrain from adding on behalf of the public, that I think the best disposition that could be made of this controversy would be for the legislature to intervene in the interest of the fish of the future, and prohibit the use of these murderous machines anywhere in the waters of the state.

The bill is dismissed with costs.

Mr. D. P. Kennedy and Mr. William H. Gilbert for the plaintiff.

Mr. H. B. Nicholas for the defendant.

Rough Railroading.

San Diego Union, Feb. 23.

W. H. Atwater, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express messenger, and W. W. Burgess, postal route agent, who left here on the ill-fated train of Friday, February 15, returned to town yesterday with the mail and express which went forward by that train. Mr. Atwater's experiences since leaving here have been exciting in the extreme, and will well bear narrating. It will be remembered that the train became blocked the same day she left here (Friday) on the Santa Margarita ranch, about three miles beyond the ranch house. Before the great storm of Sunday last, every one on board the train, except Mr. Atwater, had either made their way to the ranch house (Mr. O'Neil's), or gone forward to Fall Brook. Sunday morning Mr. Atwater attempted to reach Mr. O'Neil's, but found a great river of water between the train and the house, so he had to return to the train. He had had nothing to eat that day, as there was nothing on the train. A large number of gophers had taken refuge from the flood on the car wheels, and Mr. Atwater killed a number of these to use in case it came to the worst.

He stayed with the train throughout the day, Sunday. About 12 o'clock that night the track began to sink from the weight of the train, being undermined by water. Noticing this, Mr. Atwater got up steam and ran the train forward about 100 yards, to firmer ground; and there it still remains, with the track gone on either side for a mile or more. Monday morning the prospects for getting help from the ranch house were no better, as the river had not fallen; so Mr. Atwater cooked and ate a couple of gophers, and then set to work and built a light raft. This he launched, and then taking off his clothes and tying them over his head, pushed out from the bank, thinking to land on the other side without much difficulty. But he "reckoned without his host," for the raft was utterly unmanageable, and he was carried down stream at a fearful speed. He clung to his raft bark, however, and after being carried with the current about three miles, and passing over a couple of falls six feet or more high on the way, finally reached the opposite bank near the ranch house by catching a rope which was thrown to him by a sheep herder and being pulled ashore. It was late in the afternoon, however, before he reached Mr. O'Neil's and got a square meal, which was taken with a relish, as he had eaten nothing but the two gophers for two days. This adventure of Mr. Atwater's was as dangerous as it was thrilling, and one which he does not care to repeat again soon.

A Lynn man undertook to sift ashes when the wind was blowing toward his neighbor's clothes line on wash day, and when the lady who had washed the clothes discovered what he was up to the craziest being in Somerville asylum couldn't be a circumstance to her in raining round and talking. The cylinder was made lame by the jawing he got Boston Post.

HUNTING FOR DEER.

Where an Englishman Expected to Find Indians, Buffalo and Deer.

A rather rich hunting episode took place a few days ago in a woody suburb of a town not a thousand miles from Forest City. It happened that there sojourned in the town for a few days an Englishman of this species denominated in the west "tenderfeet." When he left England he carried with him an extensive equipment of weapons, offensive and defensive, and made nothing of boasting to his fellow passengers on shipboard of the vast amount of game and Indians that he should kill while in Yankeeland. When his eye alighted on the forest of buildings in New York he was surprised. "But, aw! the great metropolis of the country, you know! It must be big, you knaw!" A few hundred miles further on, and, of course, he would have all the buffalo hunting he could manage.

Arriving not far from Cleveland, he was very much disgusted at traveling so far without having had an opportunity to once use his arsenal, and a "boy," who heard him sigh, solaced him by the proffer of glorious sport. There were no buffaloes or wild Indians there, but by taking a short trip into the country he could shoot deer by the wholesale. The Englishman joyously assented to the proposition of the young man, and on the following morning three friends who were admitted to participate in the joke drove with the arsenal and its owner to a piece of swampy woods twelve miles distant. On their arrival the young men left the "tenderfoot" seated on a stump surrounded by his guns to watch for the deer that they said they would drive up for him to shoot. They had persuaded him to bring no refreshment, as they told him they would cook the deer and could buy anything else desired of some tame Indians in the neighborhood.

And from an early hour until late in the afternoon the stranger from a foreign land occupied the stump and its vicinity, bemoaning the non appearance of his game and the complete disappearance of his comrades. At length, toward nightfall, just as the Englishman had begun to relate his pitiful tale to a farmer, the missing jokers turned up with a story of losing their way in the labyrinth of forest, etc. Hungry and wrathy, but hardly daring in so wild a place to express his sentiments freely, the foreigner allowed himself to be driven back to the hotel. But before he could unburden himself there, sad to relate, the jokers vanished, and he is not to this day positive as to their names. The American hunters considered that they had experienced a good day of sport if the Englishman didn't.

BEARS COMING OUT EARLY.

Exciting Times for Some Woodsmen and Hunters in New York.

The hoop-pole cutters and bark-peelers in the neighborhood of Ellenville, New York, are commencing early to talk of the presence of bears in unusual numbers in the mountains. They have emerged with their young from their winter sleeping places some weeks before they are usually looked for. The Neversink region sends in the story that a bark-peeler named Daggett attempted to capture a pair of cubs that he found snugly stowed away in a hollow stump. He was hurrying away with them when the mother appeared. Daggett kept the cubs in his arms and ran at the top of his speed. The old bear gained on him rapidly, however, and he put down one of the cubs. Seeing that only one of her cubs had been released, she rushed after Daggett again. He dropped the other cub. This satisfied the old bear and she allowed Daggett to go on his way unmolested.

The Woodstock country is excited over the adventures of four men and a boy with a she bear and three cubs on Friday last. The party were hunting rabbits near the Greene county line. The boy fired at a rabbit, and at the sound of the gun a large bear came out from behind the root of a fallen tree. She was followed by three cubs, and rushed directly at the boy. The boy fired the undischarged barrel of his gun at her, but as it was loaded with fine shot, the effect was only to increase the bear's fury. The four men were near, and appeared in time to save the boy, who was being close pressed by the enraged bear. The guns of the party contained nothing but fine shot, but the men attacked the bear at close quarters. While the men were firing into the old bear, the boy ran up and carried away two of the cubs. The mother had received nine heavy charges of shot and was mortally wounded and fell dead before she had gone many steps. The bear was very thin, although large, and weighed but 200 pounds.

Shocked by a Meteor.

New York Sun.

The steamship Egyptian Monarch, which left London on February 7, encountered a fresh gale and heavy head sea on the second day out. There were terrible squalls and much lightning. The gale continued for two days, increasing to a hurricane. On February 11 a heavy sea broke on board, smashing the rails, the saloon house, wheelhouse, binnacle and the main gaff, and damaging and displacing boats. During more than a week the hatches were battened down and the terrified passengers were kept below. They unite in praising the coolness and courage of the officers.

"I was on watch at 10 P. M., on the second day out," said the third officer, "and was standing on the bridge. The night was very dark, a heavy gale had been blowing, and the atmosphere was heavily charged with electricity. I could feel it in my bones. Suddenly there was a loud report, like that of a sixty-eight pounder. A meteor exploded just above the bridge, right over my head. I received a violent electric shock, and then I felt as though some giant had taken a feather bed and jammed me into a corner with it, so that I couldn't breathe. The shock knocked the helmsman away from the wheel, and when it had passed the place smelled of brimstone for over five minutes. The air seemed full of brimstone. You could smell it clear down in the cabin. The captain, who was down stairs with some passengers, heard the report and came running up on deck to see if any one was killed. I've crossed the Atlantic 180 times, I've seen water spouts and fire balls in the southern seas, but I never saw anything at all like that and never heard of anything of the kind in northern latitudes."

Some of the sailors said they saw a red ball strike the mainmast just before the meteor exploded, and that when it did explode tongues of fire leaped in every direction. The Egyptian Monarch arrived in port at 2 P. M. yesterday.

Except as to the blanket, the leggins and the color of her husband, many an educated white girl has made just such a match. The lot of the tutored white maiden is not so very different from that of the untutored red girl.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Enclose 10 cents and the address of an eastern friend to this office, for the statistical OREGONIAN. The best medium to circulate in the east.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

THURSDAY, March 27.

The weather has ruled variable, several slight showers having fallen. A very few weeks will see us clear from frosts. The week's rainfall has not been important, and last week's figures are not materially added to. Some parts of Umatilla county reported light rain Tuesday night and the eastern section is enjoying clouded skies, which were off forcing weather.

General trade shows an improvement in almost all branches. Imports are very free, with increased call from the interior.

Overland receipts include 50 cs 10 bbls syrup, 1 bbl 6 cs molasses, 40 tubs butter, 130 bxs candies, 65 cs lard, 11 bxs sugar, 10 tcs hams, 125 cs milk, 8 cs cigarettes, 152 pkgs tobacco, 1200 cs coal oil, 107 bxs nails.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours: 2594 ctls wheat, 1301 bbls flour, 3 ctls oats, 201 ctls bran, 86 cs eggs, 57 bxs fruit, 2 bxs butter, 65 bls hay. Also 3178 ctls wheat, 590 bbls flour, 101 ctls millstuff, 6295 lbs hides from the eastern section.

Receipts for past seven days aggregate 50 914 ctls wheat, 8906 bbls flour, 1167 ctls oats, 247 ctls barley, 2936 ctls bran, 1400 ctls millstuff, 559 sks potatoes, 329 bls hay, 9732 lbs wool, 58,229 lbs hides, 15 bxs butter, 290 bxs fruit, 1454 bbls lime, 1425 sks flaxseed, 352 bxs eggs.

Receipts by leading lines of transportation since Aug. 1, last, as compared with a like time last season, have been:

FREIGHTS—Shippers are carrying all they desire, and the market at the close is very quiet. Transactions for the week were an iron vessel for flour, quoted at 40s direct and a wooden ship for lumber. Others were in negotiation without being closed. It is probable that at least one iron in port will be loaded on owners account. Arrivals consist only of the Alden Besse, in regular Hong Kong trade, and there is but one vessel known to be near at hand. There is no actual demand for tonnage in the face of weak grain markets abroad. The little business being done is to load stocks held or on favorable charter. For several days San Francisco has reported an inactive market. As far as can be learned no chartering for next season has been done.

WHEAT—Receipts have shown an increase over last week and are liberal for the season. The bulk of this goes into ship here, some is for shipment coastwise, and but a small portion is being stored. On spot there has been the smallest possible business, as valley wheat is in small movement, compared with Walla Walla. Buyers are limited to three or four firms, who were in need. Millers are doing next to nothing, as with stocks and picking up an odd parcel, their wants are filled. It has been difficult to quote closely, for offers seldom exceed $1 52½ while $1 55 was paid at times. At the latter figure holders generally are willing to sell, but cannot do so readily. In short, to buy promptly, $1 55 must be paid, while to realize promptly, $1 52½ must be accepted. There was next to nothing done between these extremes. The spurt in paying prices brought out more than was taken up, and buyers pretty well provided against needs. At the close they offer the inside figure, yet we deem the outside one possible for choicest grades. The immediate future depends upon arising needs almost entirely and these are uncertain. With a renewal of the late demand full prices will be paid, without it values must suffer. In Walla Walla no spot business has been reported although some is offered at $1 45. Receipts are on account of interior and previous purchase account. Late cables have reported dull and generally weak markets, unfavorable to the shipper. New York and Chicago are declining, the latter presenting a panicky front. May options in six weeks have declined about 15 cents per bushel. San Francisco is weak and dull after the recent spurt. Latest mail advices from the other side report genial weather in England, followed by several sharp frosts. Trade has been dull, the provincial markets being scantily supplied with home grown wheat, especially good whites. The inquiry has been largely for low class Indian wheat for the country, which is a great relief as the great bulk of the stock at Christmas consisted of this description. Millers find their trade in flour interfered with by the quantity of American offering, much of which is low quality and is now finding its way into the country. In Belgium there has been very little animation, though values have been steadily maintained. In Germany trade has been quiet; holders firm. In the south of Russia, at Odessa, some business has been done for shipment, owing to the favorable exchange and low freights, but supplies from the interior have been small.

The aggregate supply of sight in the United States (exclusive of California and Oregon) and Canada March 19 was 37,549,900 bushels, and of corn 16,947,100 bushels, against on the preceding weekly exhibit an aggregate of 31,075,800 bushels wheat and 15,324,600 bushels corn; and an aggregate of 23,629,400 bushels wheat and 14,159,100 bushels corn at the corresponding date last year.

The exports of wheat and flour from the United States during February, 1884, were equal to 6,201,277 bushels wheat, against 9,998,671 in 1883, and an average of 6,614,175 bushels of equals in February for last eleven years—10,157,663 bushels on the maximum having been reached in February, 1881 and 2,803,187 bushels on the minimum in February, 1877.

FLOUR—Agents quote standard at $4 75 net. Others freely offered at $4 25@4 50. Reports of cutting have been freely circulated, the agents accused stoutly denying it and in turn placing the blame on his accuser. Evidently some of the agents are cutting, but it is not our business to inquire who is doing it. Some is going forward to San Francisco for foreign shipment.

MILLSTUFF—Supplies fair with values maintained. Jobbing prices are: Bran $18; chop $25; middlings $28@32 per ton; ground barley $25@27 50, oil meal $35 per ton.

OATS—The market has ruled soft and weak to sell because of large supplies and limited request. Choice feed is freely offered at 50c, with sales a trifle. Ordinary to inferior even weaker at 40@45c. The quantity in sight is surprising in view of the reported short crop. Receipts fall behind those of last year, but the demand is correspondingly less. More of other feed is being used this season.

POTATOES—Offerings larger and dealers binding down to 45c. Early Rose for seed are coming from California.

ONIONS—Dealers pay $1 12½@1 25 per cental. Market not so firm.

PROVISIONS—Meats firm, except for shoulders which are shaded and sell slowly. Quotations are: Bacon, 12@13c; shoulders, 9@11c; country cured hams, 13@14c; best local and eastern sugar cured hams, 16@18c. Eastern pailed lard shaded to 10½@11c; keg lard, 11@12c; small tins common, 13c; local in 10 and 5 lb tins, 14@14½c.

DRIED FRUITS—Eastern apples in barrels coming in and held at 10@11c. Market steady for others. Some choice southern Oregon sun cured apples are in market. We quote sun dried apples, sacks 9@10c; Plummer dried in boxes, 15@16c; pears, 15c; pitless plums, machine, in boxes, 10c; sun dried pitless plums, 12@15c; peaches, 13@14c; Oregon prunes, 12c; eastern and German do, 8@9½c; figs, 9c; raisins $1 75@2, with usual advance for fractions.

CHEESE—A small consignment of Clatsop sold readily at 20c. Quote California, 18@19c; choice eastern, 19@20c.

FRUIT—Apples range from $1 25 to $2, as to quality, and steady. Oranges, $4@5 50. Sicily lemons, $6; Sicily seedlings, $5 50.

BUTTER—Market weak under heavy supplies. Choice local dairy held 30@35c, with limited movement; California roll, 25@30c; eastern tub, 25@27½c; other kinds range from 15 to 20c.

POULTRY—Chickens not so firm at $5@6; geese, $9@11; ducks, $10@13; turkeys, 12c.

EGGS—Stocks fairly large but firmly held at 20c.

HAY—Steady, at $18@20 for baled timothy.

HOPS—Lack of supplies prevents business. The situation is without change.

WOOL—All markets are more or less irregular, as reduced stocks in fine qualities furnish little scope to operations. On this coast there remains almost nothing of the fall clip, and spring California is backward in putting in an appearance. The winter has been favorable to sheep throughout Oregon and Washington, and the clip should be clean and strong. With care on the part of the grower a good quality of wool will be offered. Values do not promise well, as present indications lead to the conclusion that 14 to 17 cents will rule. The importance of marketing clean wools will be apparent, for buyers will fight shy of defective as long as possible. The coming clip should exceed 10,000,000 pounds, of which four-fifths will be handled in Portland. The opening of grading houses will attract buyers and make Portland a wool center.

The Merchandise Market.

The Alden Besse brings rice and the usual assortment of Chinese merchandise. Stocks of China rice are already fair, but values will hardly be shaken. Island shows some advance. Salt in small sacks ... around all sizes are firm. The late flurry in coffee in the east has not affected coast markets. We are receiving a liberal quantity of syrup by rail. The California refinery placed a limited quantity on the San Francisco market at reduced rates, but quotations were not affected. Grain bags excite little interest, and operators are very quiet. No change is looked for in the immediate future. The east is sending us cured corned beef and a line of salt fish which is well received. The dry goods line is very quiet. New stocks of hardware are coming in freely by rail. Sugars are steady, with stocks ... Beans continue firm. All kinds of codfish are ... at last decline.

BEANS—Small whites, 4½c; bayos, pinks and butter, 5½c a 6 nom.

BREAD STUFF—The calf shows a slight increase. We quote: Ship, 3½c; pilot, 5½c; extra pilot, 6½c; soda crackers, 8c; Boston, ... 10c; other crackers cakes and biscuits, 6@15c, as to variety.

COFFEE—We quote: Rio and Costa Rica, 15@16c; Java, 22@25c.

PICKLES—Kegs, $1 25@1 40.

CANNED GOODS—We quote: Corn, $2 60; tomatoes, 2½s, $1 75 gallons, $3 75@4; pie peaches, $2@2 25; table peaches, $2 50@2 75; assorted table fruits, $2 75; assorted pie fruits, gallons $4 50, 2½s, $1 75.

COAL OIL—Good brands, 26c; others, 17@22c.

RICE—Island, scarce and firm at $5 75@6; China mixed, $4 50@5 75.

SALT—Fine Liverpool, $16, $19 and $21 per ton, as to size of bags; half ground coast, $10@10 50.

SUGARS—Powdered coming in market. We quote: (A) patent cube, 10½c; (A) crushed, 10½c; dry granulated, 10½c; extra golden C, 9½c; golden C 9c; D in bbls, 7¾c; extra powdered 10¾c. Quotations are for bbls, halves and boxes, ¼c advance.

WOOL BAGS—Values are steady and expected to rule so for the season. We quote 3¾ lbs, 40c; 4 lbs 42½c. Fleece twine, 10c; sewing, 30@35c.

The Meat Market.

Quotations represent rates paid by slaughterers to dealers for whole carcass.

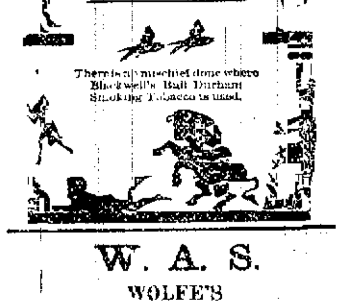
The best evidence in the world of the purity and excellence of Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco is found in the fact that the fame of this tobacco increases from year to year. This could not be the case if it were merely "gotten up to sell," or had any dubious or dangerous ingredients in it. Among millions of users of all nationalities, surely some one would find out if it were impure, injurious or unpalatable. For 18 years this tobacco has been acknowledged to be the best in the world, and every year the Bull Durham brand grows more popular, the demand for it wider, and smokers more enthusiastic over its delicious natural flavor. Ask your dealer for it. Get the genuine—trade-mark of the Bull.



There is no mischief done where Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco is used.

A public trial of over thirty years duration, in every section of our country, of UDOLPHO WOLFE'S SCHNAPPS, its unsolicited indorsement by the medical faculty, and a sale unequaled by any other alcoholic distillate, have secured for it the reputation for salubrity claimed for it. CANCER.

The experience in the treatment of Cancer with Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) would seem to warrant us in saying that it will cure this much dreaded scourge. Persons so afflicted are invited to correspond with us.

I believe Swift's Specific has saved my life. I had virtually lost hope of ever ... part of my body and my arms from the poisonous effects of a large cancer on my neck, from which I had suffered for 20 years. S. S. S. has relieved me of all soreness, and the poison is being forced out of my system. I will soon be well. W. R. ROBISON, Davisboro, Ga.

Two months ago my attention was called to the case of a woman afflicted with a cancer on her shoulder, at least 5 inches in circumference, angry, painful and giving the patient no rest day or night for 6 months. I obtained a supply of Swift's Specific for her. The has taken six bottles, and the ulcer is entirely healed up, only a very small scab remaining, and her health is better than for 5 years past, seems to be perfectly cured. REV. JESSE H. CAMPBELL, Columbus, Ga.

I have seen remarkable results from use of Swift's Specific on a cancer. A young man near here has been afflicted 5 years with the most angry looking eating cancer I ever saw, and was nearly dead. The first bottle made a wonderful change, and after 5 bottles were taken, he is nearly or quite well. It is truly wonderful. M. F. CRUMLEY, M. D., Oglethorpe, Ga.

UNDER LIP AND INSIDE OF CHEEK EATEN AWAY BY CANCER.

My father had an eating cancer for several years, which had eaten away his under lip and the inside of his cheek down to the bottom of his gums. We got some of Swift's Specific and gave him, and the effect has been wonderful—almost miraculous. The sores are all healed and he is perfectly well. Every one here said it was only a question of time about his death, and his cure has created the greatest excitement in this part of the country. I hope you will publish about my father's cure, and send me some circulars to give to my friends and the afflicted. W. R. RATHBOP, South Easton, Mass., Jan. 2, 1884.
